DePaul University Doctoral Program in Clinical Psychology

Updated: October, 2021

The PhD program in Clinical Psychology at DePaul University is accredited by the American Psychological Association (APA). For further information about APA accreditation or specific information about the accreditation status of our doctoral program please contact:

Jacqueline Remondet Wall, PhD Director, Office of Program Consultation and Accreditation American Psychological Association 750 First Street, NE Washington, DC 20002-4242 202-336-5979, http://www.apa.org/ed/accreditation

The Committee on Accreditation at APA requires that accredited programs provide the following data to the public:

- Time to completion, from admission to graduation

- Program costs

- Internship success rates

- Attrition rates

- Licensure rates

The Clinical Psychological Doctoral Program provides this minimal information necessary to fulfill this requirement. We also provide additional information consistent with our membership in the Council of University Directors of Clinical Psychology (http://cudcp.org/). Please note that the information and data provided below are based on the past 10 years, unless otherwise noted.

Also, please describe or provide a link to program admissions policies that allow students to enter with credit for prior graduate work, and the expected implications for time to completion. Please indicate NA if not applicable:

Students entering the program with prior graduate work are permitted to transfer a maximum of 8 credit hours (equivalent to two classes) towards the doctoral program if the following conditions are met. First, the credit must not have been applied towards the completion of a previous graduate degree. Second, the course materials must be reviewed and approved by the clinical faculty. Prior graduate work is not expected to decrease the time to completion.
